Family and Friends

I can't begin to tell you what your gift means to me and my family. The money is most definitely helpful and will go to extremely good use, there's no doubt about that. But more than the monetary value, I so especially appreciate the thought behind the gift. As you know this was the last thing I expected to happen but your actions have really lightened the load. For that especially, I thank you. This time has been difficult for us, but knowing we have the support of people like you certainly helps. Please know I won't forget your kindness. Thank you again.

Tidbits from the Hilltop

by Ann Tomlinson Malkie

Thank goodness we made it through the Winter and Spring is finally here (maybe). I can hardly wait to start working in my rocks to plant something. My cousin said he had some really good fertilizer because every year he has a really great crop of rocks that never seems to run low. I think he got the fertilizer from Dad's red clay because there are rocks a-plenty up here on the hill – but it does not keep me from dreaming about what this place will look like in the future.

I am working on a five-year plan because it may take that long to move enough rocks out of the way to get something green, besides weeds, to grow. Of course, I can barely tell the difference between a dandelion and a daffodil so I have a lot of reading to do before I start to plant anything. Maybe I will start volunteering some Monday and Friday mornings for an hour or two to help with Winslow's flower beds (9:00 AM at City Hall). I am sure I will learn something that will help this brown thumb become a little bit greener.

Until next month, remember to have a good time. Art class is Thursday, April 12, register early.

Winslow Quilts of Valor

By Yvonne Fennell

The Winslow Quilts of Valor Circle participated in the Hero Tales Hangar Party at Drake Field. This was put on by Soldier on Service Dog.

We had 5 Quilts of Valor that were presented to Veterans with Service Dogs. It was wonderful !!

Later on that night a young man came up to me and asked if he could give me a hug. Yes, of course. He told me that he was given a Quilt of Valor in 2007 and it meant the world to him. When ever he was afraid or lonely he would just wrap himself up in the quilt and he could remember the good things about home. Then he gave me another hug.

This is why I make Quilts of Valor. I want to touch people and make sure they know they are not forgotten !!

Thank you to Kay Deitz for making two of the quilts.
Thank you to Glenda Reed for making one of the quilts.

If you are interested in joining the Winslow Quilts of Valor Circle please contact Yvonne @ 479 634-2120 or come to our Quilting Bees on Thursday @ 12:30. We meet at the Winslow Community Meals building.

Come early and have an excellent meal for a $4 donation.

Everyone is welcome to the Quilting Bee. You don't have to be a member. You can come and make your own quilt or work on a Quilt of Valor. Or you can just come and keep us company. It is a wonderful way to meet new people and have as good time socializing..

If there is anyone with RED, WHITE OR/AND BLUE material you want to donate, please let Yvonne know or bring it down to the Meals building.

Also we are in desperate need of donations. They are tax deductible and checks can be made out to Quilts of Valor, PO Box 35, Winslow, AR 72959.

Special thank you to Patty Provence and her WONDERFUL quilt store, PIECE OF HEAVEN, in Mountainburg. Thank you for your help in putting our quilts together and having a good supply of fabric !! We couldn't do it without you !!

KUDZU-DIGGING VOLUNTEERS NEEDED!

Fun Fact #1: it is said that kudzu grows nearly a foot a day.

Fun Fact #2: a Kudzu dig in Tunnel Park will be 1-4 PM, Saturday, April 28.

Meet at City Hall, 108 North Winslow Blvd.) by 12:45 PM.

For yet another year, volunteers from the Winslow area are needed to help with the ongoing campaign to eradicate the kudzu vine from downtown. This will be the fourth battle in the war on kudzu in Tunnel Park, just up Main Street from City Hall. We're getting closer to "finishing", but eradicating this plant takes persistence!

Last year, a crew of Winslow and northwest Arkansas volunteers cut out kudzu vines and dug up the kudzu "crowns" in Tunnel Park, almost reaching the park's upper boundary across from the Methodist Church. They also dug out privet and Japanese honeysuckle, two other invasive and non-native plants.

As in previous years, the event is organized by Beaver Watershed Alliance and supported by in-kind help from the Winslow Community Development Center. Please call or email Nate Weston, Program Coordinator of BWA at 479-750-8007 or nate@beaverwatershedalliance.org if you are interested.

--Granola bars, bottled water, free t-shirts, gloves, sunscreen, tick spray and tools will be provided.

--Please wear clothing you don't mind getting dirty—long pants, sturdy shoes, and jacket

--Call or email Nate Weston (Program Coordinator of Beaver Watershed Alliance)

If interested: 479-879-7489 or nate@beaverwatershedalliance.org

WINSLOW'S ARBOR DAY CELEBRATION A SUCCESS

On Saturday morning, March 17—in its second year since being named a Tree City USA by the national Arbor Day Foundation--Winslow celebrated Arbor Day with its biggest turnout so far. Being a “Tree City” is about taking care of and planting native trees on city property, encouraging area residents to plant native trees, and doing special plantings and projects through grants available to the city.

Free native tree seedlings were supplied by Arkansas Forestry Commission, and were handed out by Nate Weston, Program Coordinator for Beaver Watershed Alliance. Nate discussed the trees, why native plants are best for the ecosystem, as well as how and where to plant them.

About 30 people from the area picked up 235 saplings, including white oaks, fragrant sumac, ninebark, serviceberry, possum haw, southern arrow-wood, sugar maple, and chinkapin oak.

At 11 am, Mayor Randy Jarnagan, alongside the Farmers Market pavilion, read Winslow's Arbor Day Proclamation to the crowd.

The special guest was Krista Quinn, Urban Forestry Partnership Coordinator from the Arkansas Forestry Commission, who travelled up from Greenbrier to observe the festivities, after which she took a tour of the city's parks, flower gardens, plantings and projects--from Peek's Park downtown to the Welcome Rock, and from Tunnel Park to the rain garden at the ball field pavilion.

Krista was impressed with Winslow: the folks she met and the vitality of organizations like the Winslow Community Center Association and all that was being accomplished in what was likely the smallest Tree City in Arkansas. She loved its unique features, like the Winslow Tunnel (longest tunnel in the state) and the historic downtown with its Mercantile/City Hall building and the old two-story block building on Peek's Avenue across the tracks.

It's clear that we have a lot here in Winslow to celebrate!

YOU THINK ABOUT THAT

By Wesley Wood

Woodw840@gmail.com

The Bible Only Teaches One Way

John 14:6 Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me. So many Churches, so many different opinions, So much confusion, of which God is not the author; 1 Corinthians 14:33 For God is not the author of confusion, but of peace, as in all churches of the saints. All these different opinions and Churches came only from the pits of Hell the force of evil to divide, conquer and cause the force of good to fail. Anyone sincerely watching the decline of morals and irresponsible actions in our Nation has to understand. I challenge you to study the teachings of Jesus in the four Gospels. Those are all commandments for you to live by. Pay close attention to the parables of stewardship, ten virgins and the Ten Talents in Matthew Chapter 25, the husbandmen Matthew Chapter 21. Notice what happens to the Apathetic Servants.

There will be a Judgment day and you will be there to answer for "Your" own personal actions. I'm Wesley Wood, YOU THINK ABOUT THAT!

"Jesus Himself... walked along with them."

WHAT ABOUT YOUR CHILDREN?

More and more people are living their lives without ever attending Church or Sunday School. They apparently feel that such things are unnecessary—that they can do just fine without outward expressions of religious faith. But what of their children? What kind of life will they have if they are brought up without a knowledge of Jesus Christ, His Word, or the things of the spirit?

1) What Kind Of A World Will They Inherit? We look in dismay at the sick, corrupt world in which we live. But how much sicker and more sinister a world will we leave our children if we leave them a world without Jesus! To have any hope of changing the world for the better, we must, first of all, change ourselves to conform to God's standards.

2) What Kind Of Adults Will They Become? If children do not receive moral and spiritual instruction at home, where will they get it? And, without a moral foundation, how will they live? Judge Sam Davis Tatum, long-time juvenile court judge in Nashville, TN, speaks of what can happen in these words: "I have tried approximately 3000 girls and boys under 17 years of age for violating the law. Of that number there has not been a child whose father or mother went to Bible School regularly." The Bible says: "Provide not your children to straths but bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord." (Ephesians 6:4)

3) What Will Become Of Their Eternal Souls? In today's world it is fashionable to sneer at the idea that humans have an immortal soul. Yet, as Batsell Barrett Baxter wrote: "Western Civilization is built upon the assumption that man is an immortal soul... If there was not something sacred about man it would be unintelligent to provide mental hospitals for those who are hopelessly ill. It would be better to let them be disposed of in some humane way. But they are not like animals... they are human beings and we care for them as long as we can." Jesus warned: "For what will a man give in exchange for his soul?" (Mark 8:37)

Those who protest, "I don't need Jesus or religion," should think of the impact that decisions will have upon their children! You may have the right to live your own life however you choose—but, what will your choices mean for your children?

Housing Programs

USDA Rural Development housing programs work to improve the quality of life for rural Americans by ensuring that they have access to safe, well-built, affordable homes. A house is more than a roof over our heads; it is often the foundation upon which rests our ability to live near good jobs and to gain access to good schools and other public services.

Homeownership builds economic stability and, over the long term, creates equity to finance education, business startups and retirement. USDA thus not only helps rural people acquire homes, it helps build better lives and communities.

The direct and indirect impacts of housing development and rehabilitation reverberate throughout the Nation. Residential construction and rehabilitation stimulate various manufacturing and trade industries and related professional services. Housing activity also benefits the larger economy as wages are earned and spent by those directly involved in housing development.

Homeownership Loans

Rural Development's housing programs finance new or improved housing for very low- to moderate-income families and individuals who wish to live in rural areas or rural cities and towns. The purpose is to provide financing with no downpayment and at favorable rates and terms. These loans are for the purchase, construction, rehabilitation, or relocation of a dwelling and related facilities.

Two types of homeownership loans are offered: guaranteed and direct loans. Under the direct loan program, individuals or families receive a loan directly from USDA. Payments are based on income, and you must be unable to obtain a homeownership loan from a bank or other conventional sources.

Guaranteed loans are available to qualifying applicants who would not be able to get a conventional loan without the loan guarantee. These are loans made by other lenders, such as banks or credit unions, and are guaranteed by Rural Development.

Self-Help Housing

Many rural families have achieved the American dream of owning their own homes through USDA's Mutual Self-Help Housing program.

Self-Help Housing loans help groups of 6 to 10 low-income families build their own homes by providing materials and the skilled labor they cannot furnish themselves. The families must agree to work together until all homes are finished.

Self-Help works in combination with a grant program to nonprofit organizations and the direct single family lending program, although other home financing sources can be used. The nonprofits help families build their houses by providing technical assistance.

Rural Rental Housing Loans

Apartment living is often an alternative for people who cannot afford the purchase price and maintenance costs of their own individual house. Rural Rental Housing loans are made to finance building construction and site development of multi-family living quarters for people with low, very low, and moderate incomes. Some units are reserved for people aged 62 and over. Loans can be made in this program to construct housing that will be operated in cooperative form, but loan funds may not be used to finance individual units within the project.

Home Improvement Loans and Grants

Home Improvement and Repair Loans and Grants enable very low-income rural homeowners to remove health and safety hazards from their homes and to make homes decent, safe, sanitary, and accessible for people with disabilities.

Loans are available to very low-income rural homeowners to make substantial home repairs when other loan options are not available.

For seniors age 62 and older who cannot afford a loan, grant funds are available for these repairs.

Site Loans

Rural Housing Site Loans buy adequate building sites for development of a desirable community by private or public nonprofit organizations.

Farm Labor Housing

Housing conditions for farm laborers lag far behind those for other Americans. USDA Rural Development serves as the only national source of construction funds for dedicated farm labor housing through its Farm Labor Housing loan and grant programs.

Farm Labor Housing Loans and Grants enable farmers, public or private nonprofit organizations, and units of State and local governments to build, buy, or repair farm labor housing in either dormitory or multifamily apartment style. And they can help pay for important facilities, such as on-site child-care centers.

Housing Preservation Grants

Housing Preservation grants are used to renovate deteriorating homes and rental properties occupied by families whose incomes fall into the low and very-low categories. Nonprofits, local governments, and Native American tribes can receive grants to repair these properties and bring them up to code.

These grants are almost always used in conjunction with funds from other sources, including local and State governments and grants from private businesses. This means that taxpayer dollars go further and accomplish more than would otherwise be possible.

Housing Subsidies

Housing Programs can help subsidize monthly mortgage and rental payments, limiting these costs to no more than 30 percent of the adjusted monthly income of the applicant.

These subsidies are not available as a separate component but apply only to the direct homeownership, rural rental and farm labor programs described above.

Florida's Teacher Of The Year Dares To Speak TRUTH!

Kelly Guthrie Raley has been teaching for 20 years and currently educates kids at Eustis Middle School in Lake County, Florida. Just last month she was named the 2017-2018 Teacher of the Year.

The day after the horrific shooting that took place at Marjorie Stoneman Douglas High School in Parkland, Florida, she posted a rant on Facebook that has since gone viral. In the post, she talked about parental responsibility, compassion, and respect, and more than 823,000 people have liked the post and agreed with it, while more than 649,000 have shared it with others.

Here is what Mrs. Raley had to say.

Okay, I'll be the bad guy and say what no one else is brave enough to say, but wants to say. I'll take all the criticism and attacks from everyone because you know what? I'm a TEACHER. I live this life daily. And I wouldn't do anything else! But I also know daily I could end up in an active shooter situation.

Until we, as a country, are willing to get serious and talk about mental health issues, lack of available care for the mental health issues, lack of discipline in the home, horrendous lack of parental support when the schools are trying to control horrible behavior at school (oh no! Not MY KID. What did YOU do to cause my kid to react that way?), lack of moral values, and yes, I'll say it-violent video games that take away all sensitivity to ANY compassion for others' lives, as well as reality TV that makes it commonplace for people to constantly scream up in each others' faces and not value any other person but themselves, we will have a gun problem in school. Our kids don't understand the permanency of death anymore!!!

I grew up with guns. Everyone knows that. But you know what? My parents NEVER supported any bad behavior from me. I was terrified of doing something bad at school, as I would have not had a life until I corrected the problem and straightened my ass out. My parents invaded my life. They knew where I was ALL the time. They made me have a curfew. They made me wake them up when I got home. They made me respect their rules. They had full control of their house, and at any time could and would go through every inch of my bedroom, backpack, pockets, anything! Parents: it's time to STEP UP! Be the parent that actually gives a crap! Be the annoying mom that pries and knows what your kid is doing. STOP being their friend. They have enough friends at school. Be their parent. Being the "cool mom" means not a damn thing when either your kid is dead or your kid kills other people because they were allowed to have their space and privacy in YOUR HOME. I'll say it again. My home was filled with guns growing up. For God's sake, my daddy was an 82nd Airborne Ranger who lost half his face serving our country. But you know what? I never dreamed of shooting anyone with his guns. I never dreamed of taking one! I was taught respect for human life, compassion, rules, common decency, and most of all, I was taught that until I moved out, my life and bedroom wasn't mine it was theirs. And they were going to know what was happening because they loved me and wanted the best for me.

There. Say that I'm a horrible person. I didn't bring up gun control, and I will refuse to debate it with anyone. This post wasn't about gun control. This was me, loving the crap out of people and wanting the best for them. This was about my school babies and knowing that God created each one for greatness, and just wanting them to reach their futures. It's about 20 years ago this year I started my teaching career. Violence was not this bad 20 years ago. Lack of compassion wasn't this bad 20 years ago. And God knows 20 years ago that I wasn't afraid daily to call a parent because I KNEW that 9 out of 10 would cuss me out, tell me to go to Hell, call the news on me, call the school board on me, or post all over FaceBook about me because I called to let them know what their child chose to do at school because they are a NORMAL kid!!!!

Those 17 lives mattered. When are we going to take our own responsibility seriously?

ALL DECKED OUT IN THEIR EASTER BONNETS

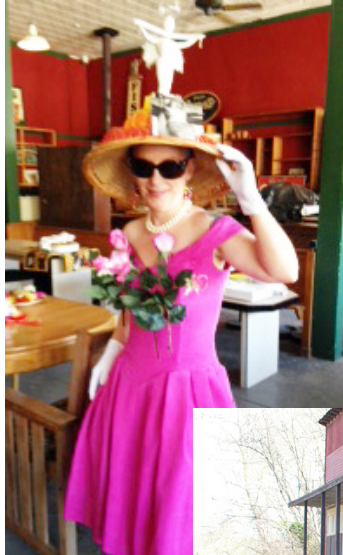

3rd Annual Easter Bonnet Contest and Brunch

The sun was shining, the breeze a bit chilly, but Downtown Winslow was really “hoppin” Saturday morning celebrating the 3rd annual Winslow Easter Bonnet Brunch. Many were decked out in their most creative Easter Bonnets, even some of our canine friends.

Along came Ms Cottontail, dressed all in silver on a silver bicycle, riding down the Bunny Trail, named Winslow Blvd any other day of the week. There were little stuffed piggies and other toys for all the big and little girls and boys. For Mom and Pop the Squirrel Jam Band tuned up their instruments and played those fabulous Golden Oldies but goodies that had them tapping their toes, singing along and some were even dancing in the street.

It ended about noon-thirty with everyone looking forward to the 4th Annual Easter Bonnet Contest next year.
