Boston Mountain Fire Association

The BMFA held their annual meeting on May 8 at Fire Station # 2.

The report to the public was given by Bob Dirgo.

"I believe every year for a long time I have seen an improvement in the Boston Mountain Fire Department.

- (1) We have improved the quality of firefighting equipment.
- (2) We have better communication equipment
- (3) We have a very good ISO rating.
- (4) We have maintained a good financial position.
- (5) We have added many new members
- (6) We have safer firefighting body gear for the fire fighters.
- (7) The Bonus Program.

The two new board members elected were Eric Underhill to Position 3 and J. R. Wood to Position 4.

After the annual meeting the regular monthly meeting was held. Discussion included repairs to one of the trucks with possibility of same problem with another truck, battery for AED for Station 3, and a feasibility study for one of two methods being considered of enhancing the range and strengthening the signal for the radios both for faster response time and communications in the field.

The June Board Meeting will be the second Thursday, June 12th at 7:00 PM. They will reorganize the board and elect new officers at that meeting.

$1000.00 Reward Offered

In March two R-22 Air Conditioning condenser units were stolen from behind the Winslow Library. These units supplied the library and the other rooms in the building with air conditioning. In addition several other units on the campus were vandalized and left in an unusable condition.

A reward of $1000.00 is being offered for the apprehension and conviction of the parties responsible. Please call or come by Winslow City Hall with any information you have regarding this theft and vandalization.

HAPPY FATHER'S DAY

Old School Building And Library Protected

New heat pumps have been installed replacing the ones stolen a few months ago from the Old School Building housing the Winslow Library and Friends of the Library Used Book Store. Surveillance cameras have been installed both inside and outside of the building. Inside they cover the hallway from all angles and the same with the library. Outside cameras are installed to cover all four sides of the building. It's sad that the city has to go to these measures and expense, spending about $4500.00 to replace what was stolen and protect it from further incidents.

WINSLOW COMMUNITY MEETING ON JUNE 10

The Winslow Community Development Council is having its next meeting at 7 pm on June 10 at Winslow School.

By the way, although "Winslow Community Development Council" is its official name, don't let that intimidate you! It's really just a time for folks in the Winslow area to come together and share their concerns and ideas on the 2nd Tuesday of each month about maintaining—and improving--the quality of life in Winslow.

At the June 10 meeting, there will be a continuation of discussing the future of the Winslow School campus. Everyone is invited to come by and participate. Saving and using the old school building and the gym seem to be the most urgent concerns.

Robert Runyan –Recipient of 2014 “Living Treasure” Award

By Jo Kyle

The Arkansas Arts Council awarded the 2014 “Living Treasure” Award to Robert Runyan of Winslow in recognition of his skill in hand-built log cabin/house structures and stone masonry. He was honored at a very well attended reception held at the Shiloh Museum on Thursday, May 14, 2014.

Robert and his small crew of craftsmen build each log house using a 700-800 year old method called “Scandinavian Full-Scribe” in which each timber is honed out to exactly fit the log beneath it. Over time each log settles even cozier into the one below adding stability and weather tightness to the log house. This is also known as an “over-scribed-method” using no chinking, caulking or extra thick gaskets between the logs.

According to Robert an average size log house can take up to 2 years to complete. The majority of the work is done with hand tools similar to those used in the 1800's.

The same is true of his rock work. Each rock is shaped to match the rocks around it. I remember being fascinated when he was doing the rock work on what was the Mountain Top Store run by the Willyards about the early 80's.

Each year since 2002 the Arkansas Arts Council has presented the “Living Treasure” award recognizing an outstanding craftsman whose ability has contributed to the preservation of a traditional craft or art form.

The first will be held June 14, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Ozark Folkways. Price is $25. I will be at Colcord, OK for Old Settler's Day at Springtown Schoolhouse behind the Talbot Library on June 7 all day with my western historical romances, Stone Heart's Woman and Wilda's Outlaw. While there I plan to give away copies of some of my western historical romances available on Kindle. Several local western authors including Dusty Richards, Pamela Foster and Greg Camp will also be there. Come on over, it promises to be a fun day. Things are going to get really Western.

Latest book, Beyond the Moon, is scheduled to be released in September, but there will be much more about that later as we get closer to the release. See you all somewhere this summer, I'm sure.

Billboard Against Geoengineering/ Weather Modification.

This is the first billboard to go up in ARKANSAS speaking out against geoengineering/weather modification. Manmade weather is destroying our environment, making people sick and causing extreme weather that is taking lives and property and businesses. It is being done under the "assumed consent" law...Meaning, if we don't speak out and say NO then they assume we don't mind! Hopefully more billboards will go up in the future. See ARKANSAS AGAINST CHEMICAL AEROSOL SPRAYING on Facebook, also CHEMTRAILS GLOBAL SKYWATCH on Facebook. Your future and your children's grandchildren future is at stake.

The Cavern

In the “mural room”, I asked myself over and over if these scenes weren’t true, what possessed this Indian culture to pain such events. These are not made-up legends, they tell stories of events. For example, wooden boat appears in one scene adorned with iron. A huge man appears sporting a white-golden beard, as do others in the boat. Undoubtedly, the scene does not take place in NW Arkansas but trade seems to be trading beads and ornaments for tools and weapons.

In other scenes Indians are actually burying parts of their dead. In the same room two pyramid structures appear, some four feet at their bases, approximately six to eight feet apart, some ten feet in height and adorned with various trinkets. Clay pottery also exist, quills of birds and broken-up (decayed) turtle shell upon stacked rock.

In another scene, what appears to be an Indian of scholar. It, though somewhat faded, appears to be a book in his right hand and a quill in his left. Other adults (men) are seated as if being taught. Two letters of our own alphabet stand out vividly, “A” and “Q”, but no language is written by any letters. The turtle is vivid in all murals.

Through the years I’ve kept journal I’ve written concerning this existence, but never needed them. It seems to be instilled in my mind, except the exact location of my initial discovery of entry. There is another entrance, but a good eight miles from the rooms of interest. Dark corridors exist throughout this route.

Two things stuck in my mind upon entry. No bats whatsoever, no bear tracks within the entire structure, also not one snake, ‘course that did not hurt my feelings. The “Pond Room” has a thin opening of sunlight during the day on the south east side, with twinkling sunlight from up above, scattered. The middle of the pond may be bottomless and is dark emerald green. Gravel and sand appear around the perimeter, which is arched to a wall of rock with that thin opening of light. Rushing water sounds are heard beneath the floor in one room.

If man knows of this concern, undoubtedly it has not been revealed. I cannot imagine the Government or scientists not knowing of this existence, not with our technology today. Yet, no footsteps appear except for mine and four others throughout the area. I suppose it is possible to not know as man discovers new species and possibilities each day of any given time zone. Hallelujah!

There appears to be some watermarks alongside the walls but they also appear to be ancient. A shark’s tooth is embedded in one huge rock extending from wall. Fossils appear in various rocks. Soil and rock are different in nature at different heights of the “Pond Room”. Another room has rocks extending from one wall and could have been sculpted by man. They resemble three huge chairs. One in the center is larger than the other two which are positioned one on each side of the largest.

Not far from this cavern lies an old cave. Two people from Winslow explored this cave many years ago. It also extends out some eight or nine miles but is treacherous. A man would have to be thin in stature to explore this cave, mighty thin. Several trails not followed could possibly lead into the cavern; I do not know. This cave exists on the Eastern side of a major thoroughfare off the “beaten path”. One entrance is off to the side of a walking trail, the opening in the side of a nearby knoll.

Personally, I don’t believe at this interval the cavern will be exploited. The person or persons that eventually will find it, will be people that will step –up to the plate. An extra step of stamina will also be needed. The sun still rises in the East, does it not? Yet, if a person can step sideways on a path about a foot wide standing upon that path on a NW side of a hill, they might actually see a covered entrance to something. The covering will resemble a three foot triangular rock, thin in structure. From the path is a good bit of yardage across the valley floor. A good GPS might come in handy.

Though no bears have entered the cavern, bear are plentiful through the area of concern, as are snakes. Rocky regions lie within! Hallelujah!

{Safety throughout this adventure is a must effort...(hidden wells exist...) It is against the law to enter caves.

WEST FORK OF THE WHITE RIVER CLEANUP

On Saturday May 17, the Beaver Watershed Alliance supervised a cleanup of the West Fork, from Winslow to the city of West Fork. Several folks from Winslow participated, taking trash from the river and its banks around here.

At the lunch which followed at Riverside Park in West Fork—attended by about one hundred participants from all over the area--Beaver Watershed Alliance President John Pennington recognized Winslow as the most active in the area because of its new rain garden at the ball park pavilion (helped by 4H children), the erosion control plantings along the West Fork in Peek’s Park downtown, and its participation in the river cleanup.

A Big Bouquet Of Roses

Have you walked around Winslow and visited the parks? WCDC and the Master Gardeners have really been busy.

Every year the Master Gardeners plant the barrels along the walk in front of City Hall, the Tiny Jarnagan memorial at the Ball Park, and the Welcome Rock on Hwy 71. This year they have built new gardens at the north edge of the Pavilion in the Ball Park.

In downtown Peak Park the rock planters look lovely with the variety of colors. Along the edge of the park facing Hwy 74 several bushes have been planted above the rock work that will help prevent erosion when flood season turns the West Fork of the White River into a roaring torrent.

A very big thank you to the WCDC, the Master Gardeners, and all the volunteers who are working so hard to give Winslow and her parks a beautiful facelift.

“Comedy Corner”

David Gesn © 2014

Sometime ago someone of interest asked me if I was rich and famous. “Yes”. And one can sure tell that by the ancient buggy I drive, and that dilapidated checking account I possess at the bank! If a person so desired to rob my home, he would have to bring something of value with him to make it look good. As far as my art is concerned, I plan to become famous four hundred years after I’m dead and gone. Hallelujah! I’ve never been filthy rich, but have been well-off, and then I got over it. Turns out, many of my physicians needed some new golf clubs, one needed a new BMW, and another needed a new Mercedes! I was proud to be able to help them out in their hour of need. I was generous with many pharmacies also. As America continues on its trek of socialistic reform, medical expenses such as mine will one day be a thing of the past. Families will have to provide for their own or the government may just put someone like me out to pasture- literally. HALLELUJAH!

Going down to the creek and conversing with the “little people” is now becoming more of a challenge. Once upon a time I only had to visit my psychologist once every six months, but he has decided I need to come more often. It’s like he doesn’t believe in the little people. Not many folks do. I guess getting him to believe in Santa Claus, the Easter Bunny and the Tooth Fairy is merely out of the question! My psychologist needs a new clock for his office and my $350.00 an hour should be able to support that effort. – HALLELUJAH!

At times I actually feel like I’m the richest man alive and then it happens – reality set in. “Ah”, the center of that canned good, though outdated, is not popped – up, so it’s OK to eat the ingredients. A run-over rooster tastes as good as a store bought one! Those pants may be holey, but airy in the summer. Hey, a little bit of paint on a shirt and who needs a tied-dyed shirt from the sixties? Imagination is sometimes a plus – HALLELUJAH!

So, someone else asked me why I have not entered into marriage again. I don’t look good naked anymore! Marriage today is more of a convenience plan. If finances are in order the marriage works, if not, even the sex is bad! Yet, I am in love with a fantasy. The one great thing about that, is you can love a person they’ll never know it. It works good for me, because if she knew it, she might ask the question, “Are you nuts?” My finances are in order, I’m broke. HALLELUJAH!

Sometimes I feel like Forest Gump. “Life is like a box of chocolates, you never know what you’re going to get!” Rich and famous? Not hardly, but working on it in a mysterious kind of way. Hey, I’m alive; I still have a chance – HALLELUJAH!

Thacher Dawg?

As related by The Disciple*

I was walking in Jasper Arkansas one day with my Saddle-Dog, Katie. A Saddle-Dog is one who accompanies a driver or rider of equines.

Watching then explore; charging up a bank after a squirrel or deer; watching them enjoying being wonderfully free to range ahead or drop behind to poke in an armadillo or chipmunk hole; actively engaged instead of with nothing to do but lollygag around a backyard prison-camp each day like the mass of dogs-they, all the while honoring you by staying with your travel – it warms the heart and makes driving a wagon or buggy or riding a horse or mule lots more fun than this could ever, ever be, alone. Their joy is your joy.

Kate was staying about 8 feet ahead on the sidewalk. Whenever she got much farther than that, a gentle one word reminder would cause her to slow until I caught up.

Katie was a pure-bred Border Collie who stuck with me 4½ great years from puppydom until someone shot her. She was my companion on 100 mile wagon trains, on trail rides; and made our solo forays through the vast Buffalo National River wilderness of Newton County (the area that was our hone); and even our distant motorized travels, absolutely wonderful. Golly, how I love her and her successors Forever!

Doggies don't seem to remain all that long with me although I want to be with each one, Forever. Seems one of the things we're here to learn is how to let go of whatever we love very much. Maybe it's so we'll realize some day that when God takes something away, He'll supply even more and better; and to force us to trust His timing. Maybe it's so we'll eventually realize those we love must all become ours again someday I pray.

Someone once pointed out that love, even between animals, or an animal and a human, is Eternal and is therefore indestructible. That's not to say that in the human range, there's really such a thing as unconditional love, as goes one of those stupid old-wives-tales said of dogs. There's a whole separate list of foolish sayings attaché to mules, and I can smash every one.

A dog can be made fearful and "mean," and it doesn't take that much to do it. But on a metaphysical plane, once genuine love has gone out from an entity, it's planted. It's permanent in the spiritual realm. In the carnal, it can be perturbed; but never in the spiritual.

We were headed toward Sharon K's Café, where Katie would have to wait outside. She was a well-behaved responsive Saddle-Dog; but not a Service-Dog like my last three poodles have been. Service-Dogs would come years later; God's timing.

One thing I've known 20 years. If you want to really enjoy a dog, then keep only one at a time and take him everywhere you go. Make him your constant, total friend; and bestow highest honors as he complies with your regulations, rules and statures. Fully share your food and time. They do know.

Fully retired since '95, I've been able to do that with the 8 dogs who've come and gone in my life since then. The adventures, misadventures, and travels we've shared would fill books, warm your heart, and make you cry with sorrow and gladness.

Across the narrow street I saw an old timer rocking on a high porch, the house having the classic look of Appalachia. The clapboard siding was painted a Christmas green; not so attractive a color for a house (at least not without yellow or orange trim) but better I guess, than the gray-brown of weathered wood. I suspect it was colored with whatever paint had come to hand, and it's probably a good thing they didn't run out of green before they finished. That's the Ozarks way. "Make do, do without; or do it yourself." It works. I've lived it 40 years.

The gent was watching us, so I said, "Hey!"

Tha'cher dawg? He drawled, cautiously.

"No Sir. But she tolerates me."

He visibly chuckled.

By now we'd both stopped and were facing him across tow-lane Scenic Highway 7. Katie was 8 feet away, but came to my side and I laid my hand on her pretty head.

Seven slows traffic with steep turns on the way down the mountain, dropping you from highway speeds to 20; then takes a hard right through the center of town. In summer the air is perfumed with eau d' truck-brake.

"I was walkin' in Bradley Park one day" the old gentleman said, still rocking. "Saw this gray haired woman walkin' her dog on a leash. Big empty park; hardly anyone present, 'cept'n us.

"Lady? Thacher dawg? I ast 'er

"Yes! Yes, of course he's my dog!" She snapped.

"Wuh. W-Well, why do you got 'im on a rope!"

"Well, so he won't run away, of course!"

"Lady, I tol' 'er: if 'e'll run away – then 'e ain'cher dawg!!!"

"STILL ON THE HILL" (Family Event)

Friday June 20th 7-9 p.m.

ONCE A RIVER

An exciting project concerning Beaver Lake and its watershed is afoot in Northwest Arkansas. The popular and award-winning folk duo Still on the Hill is writing and recording an entire CD to create awareness about the lake's history and collective stories.

The project is being made possible through a collaborative grant from the Arkansas Arts Council, an agency of the Department of Arkansas Heritage, and the National Endowment for the Arts to four northwest Arkansas groups – the Association for Beaver Lake Environment (A.B.L.E.), Ozarks Water Watch, Beaver Water District, and Beaver Watershed Alliance, with special additional sponsorship through the Shiloh Museum of Ozark History. This monumental project is allowing Still on the Hill to research, write and record an entire CD about Beaver Lake and its watershed to create awareness about its history and origins in the White River and collective stories of its people.

Still on the Hill will perform one of ten, free concerts, June 20th, 2014 at Ozark Folkways in Winslow, a watershed community. They will give away 100 CDs (one per family) on a first come, first served basis.

These concerts, in addition to being entertaining and educational, will instill a sense of ownership for the protection of this valuable resource, which supplies drinking water and quality of life for one in seven Arkansans!

Rob Smets

Hope you all will read this, then pass on to your friends. Have a great day and be safe wherever the Lord has you this day.

A Minister passing through his church
In the middle of the day,
Decided to pause by the altar
To see who came to pray.

Just then the back door opened,
And a man came down the aisle,
The minister frowned as he saw the man
Hadn't shaved in a while.

His shirt was torn and shabby,
And his coat was worn and frayed,
The man knelt down and bowed his head,
Then rose and walked away.
In the days that followed at precisely noon,
The preacher saw this chap,
Each time he knelt just for a moment,
A lunch pail in his lap.

Well, the minister's suspicions grew,
With robbery a main fear,
He decided to stop and ask the man,
'What are you doing here?'

The old man said he was a factory worker
And lunch was half an hour
Lunchtime was his prayer time,
For finding strength and power.

I stay only a moment
Because the factory's far away;
As I kneel here talking to the Lord,
This is kinda what I say:

'I Just Came By To Tell You, Lord,
How Happy I Have Been,
Since We Found Each Other's Friendship
And You Took Away My Sin.
Don't Know Much Of How To Pray,
But I Think About You Every day.
So, Jesus, This Is Ben,
Just Checking In Today.'

The minister feeling foolish,
Told Ben that it was fine.
He told the man that he was welcome

To pray there anytime.

'It's time to go, and thanks,' Ben said
As he hurried to the door.

Then the minister knelt there at the altar,
Which he'd never done before.

His cold heart melted, warmed with love,
As he met with Jesus there.
As the tears flowed down his cheeks,
He repeated old Ben's prayer:

'I Just Came By To Tell You, Lord,
How Happy I've Been,
Since We Found Each Other's Friendship
And You Took Away My Sin.
I Don't Know Much Of How To Pray,
But I Think About You Every day.
So, Jesus, This Is Me,
Just Checking In Today.'

Past noon one day, the minister noticed
That old Ben hadn't come.
As more days passed and still no Ben,
He began to worry some.

At the factory, he asked about him,
Learning he was ill.
The hospital staff was worried,
But he'd given them a thrill.

The week that Ben was with them,
Brought changes in the ward.
His smiles and joy contagious.
Changed people were his reward.

The head nurse couldn't understand
Why Ben could be so glad,
When no flowers, calls or cards came,
Not a visitor he had.

The minister stayed by his bed,
He voiced the nurse's concern:
No friends had come to show they cared.
He had nowhere to turn.

Looking surprised, old Ben spoke up
And with a winsome smile;
'The nurse is wrong, she couldn't know,
He's been here all the while.'

Every day at noon He comes here,
A dear friend of mine, you see,
He sits right down and takes my hand,
Leans over and says to me:

'I Just Came By To Tell You, Ben,
How Happy I Have Been,
Since We Found This Friendship,

And I Took Away Your Sin.
I Think About You Always
And I Love To Hear You Pray,
And So Ben, This Is Jesus,
Just Checking In Today.'

If this blesses you, pass it on. Many people will walk in and out of your life, but only True friends will leave footprints in your Heart...

May God hold you in the palm of His hand
And Angels watch over you..
Please pass this on to your friends
& loved ones. If you aren't ashamed.

Jesus said, 'If you are ashamed of me,'
I will be ashamed Of you before my Father.'
If you are not ashamed, pass this on.

So, FRIENDS & FAMILY, this is ME ...

once more shake the heavens and the earth, the sea and the dry land. I will shake all nations, and the desired of all nations will come, and I will fill this house with glory,' says the LORD Almighty." - Haggai 2:6-7 (NIV)
